DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF WASHINGTON COUNTY

VOLUME VII. SPRINGFIELD, KY., WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1910. NUMBER 1

THE NEW KRAUSE PIANO CONTEST BOOMING

The Past Week Sees New Energy Among The Candidates.--Remember That "The Battle is Not to The Swift And Strong, But He Who Endures to The End."

WHO WILL GET THE FINE PIANO IS THE QUESTION?

The popularity contest for the possession of the fine pianos now going on, is creating no end of interest among the ladies. The hustling for new subscribers for the Sun in order to secure 1,000 votes at one crack, and the selling of jewelry and General Merchandise due bills on the Haydon & Willett an. Peterson & Spalding stores, is taking the young women out everywhere it might be possible to secure votes for the piano.

The balloting this week discloses some surprising jumps and recalls the old adage, "The battle is not to the swift and strong, but he who endures to the end." Who will be the winner is a question no one can at present answer, for, as it often occurs in these contests, the candidate who lags behind for weeks suddenly forges to the front and finally carries off the prize when when some other is supposed to have a lead that cannot be overcome. It is all a question of get-up and-get-there. The lady who gets out after newspaper subscriptions, putting in the spare moments in getting her friends to vote for her, is the one who comes in victorious at the end of the race.

This contest is on a strictly fair basis, and it must be understood that neither Haydon & Willett, Peterson & Spalding nor the Sun has a favorite candidate, nor will they ask anyone to vote for a certain candidate.

Get busy and canvass the county. You may be surprised over the votes that are waiting for you.

HOW TO OBTAIN VOTES

On each $1.00 paid on old subscriptions to The Sun we give 500 votes. On each $1.00 paid for a new subscriber to The Sun we give 1000 votes. All votes given when money is paid at this office. Go see your friends and get them to vote for you when paying up or subscribing for The Sun.

Make your purchases at Haydon & Willett's Store and Peterson & Spalding's Store and get your friends to do likewise. Every dollars worth purchased in general stock means 200 votes. Every dollar spent in their new jewelry department means 500 votes. Get your friends to buy at these stores and cast their votes for you.

LIST of The CANDIDATES

During the past week a much larger vote was cast than on any preceding week. Some of the candidates have shown their determination to win one of the fine pianos and have been on the jump every day soliciting subscriptions for the Sun and selling due bills on jewelry and getting their friends to vote for them when they buy goods or pay their accounts at the stores of Haydon & Willett, Springfield, or Peterson & Spalding, Texas. Miss May Curry, by a gain of several thousand votes, comes to the front this week for the piano at Haydon & Willett's store. Miss Bessie Cocanougher retains first position by persistent soliciting of votes for the piano at Peterson & Spalding's store.

Following is the list of candidates for the piano at Haydon & Willett's Drug Store, at Springfield:

Our Sixth Anniversary.

We wish to announce to our readers and friends generally that we had a birthday last week. The Sun celebrated its sixth anniversary and is now going on seven. Thanks to its friends, the Sun, on its sixth birthday finds itself a healthy and hearty infant, one that does not need a protective tariff to make it thrive. As it grows in years it will be the endeavor of the editor and manager to make it increase in usefulness to the people of the county and of greater pleasure and profit year by year to its patrons and readers. Our endeavor in the future, as in the past, shall be to furnish the people with a clean, bright, newsy paper; one that can be taken into any home and read, without offending the sensibilities of the most fastidious. Our pathway is not all strewn with roses and we ask our friends to help us by informing us as to the news Events and matters of interest transpiring in the county and thereby encourage the growth of this infant. We are not unmindful of many favors shown the Sun, and if its friends will stick as they have, the Sun will sure "get by" and "then some."

A sprained ankle will usually disable the injured person for three or four weeks. This is due to lack of proper treatment. ## C. C. McCHORD OF LOUISVILLE

Appointment Urged to Succeed Senator Cockrill on Interstate Commerce Com'n.

Washington, Dec. 1.—When President Taft, at the begining of next week, completes the writing of his message to Congress, he will take up the consideration of some remarkable indorsements, given Charles C. McChord, of Louisville, for a place on the Interstate Commerce Commission. This was announced at the White House to-day. A majority of the railroad commissioners of the United States have written to the President requesting that Mr. McChord succeed to the place left vacant by the expiration early this month of the term of former Senator F. M. Cockrell, of Missouri.

Unofficially Mr. McChord is the candidate of the National Association of Railroad Commissioners for the commissionership, it having been only at his request that the association did not pass a formal resolution in favor of his selection for the place by the President.

JOHNSON OPENS HIS CAMPAIGN

Briefly Outlinps His Platform in His Race For Governor and Promised Hearty Support.

Bowling Green, Ky., Nov. 28.—The formal announcement of Ben Johnson as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor was made in the Opera House this afternoon before a crowd that filled the spacious amphitheater.

During the forenoon his room at the hotel was filled with visitors, among them being Dr. McCormack, Harry Lazarus, John B. Gaines, C. U. McElroy, J. C. Simms, D. W. Wright, J. H. Wilkerson, and other prominent politicians, all of whom pledged him their support in his race. Hon. Clarence U. McElroy introduced the speaker.

Mr Johnson devoted a few minutes of his speech to national issues and then launched into the advocacy of his claims to the governorship. He said he would not, in this campaign, say anything in regard to any opponent which could be used as campaign material by the Republicans in case any of them should win the nomination over him. With their political record, he said, he had a right to deal.

In answer to a charge that the Republicans of his congressional district had let his election go by default, Mr. Johnson read an article from the Louisville Herald, which said that Dr. Gaddie, his Republica opponent had made a gum shoe campaign of the district, organizing McCreary clubs in every precinct in the hope of defeating him, or so reducing his majority as to eliminate him as a factor in the Governor's race.

He said Senator McCreary had been apprised of this movement three weeks before the election, as he had sent Mr. McCreary marked copies by registered mail. He said he heard nothing from Mr. McCreary regarding the matter until Friday before the election. He asserted that if the situation had been reversed and Senator McCreary had been a candidate for Congress, he would have dropped everything else and gone to his district and would have prevented any such moven ent.

He charged Senator McCreary with acquiescence in the plot to encompass the defeat former Gov Beckham to the United States Senate, after he became the Democratic nominee. Concerning his own attitude in this matter, he read a copy of a telegram he had sent to Gov. Beckham tendering his support and asking what he could do to forward the Governor's chances. He paid a high tribute to the farmers of Kentucky, especially to the tobacco growers, and said if elected Governor of Kentucky, and if ever called upon to appoint a United States Senator, he would appoint one who would vote on the side of the men who need assistance.

Mr. Johnson spoke extemporaneously and was listened to with interest. A delegation, headed by the veteran Judge Milliken, came up from Franklin and called on Mr. Johnson at his hotel. Another delegation came from Logan county, while Edmonson sent over a goodly number

It Won't Do.

Rev. John Hill, a minister, in a sermon at Cincinnati recently took the position that in Heaven we will go right along doing the things we did in this life.

That's discouraging, if true Try to picture Mr. Rockefeller being in Heaven and at the same time cut off from the passion of his earthly life, Figuratively speaking he will be buying up options on the elysian fields and sinking wells for oil to lubricate the celestial chariot wheels. Col. Roosevelt will be passing from throne to throne instructing the twelve Apostles how to judge all the tribes of Israel; Taft will start a game of golf with David and the Wright brothers will be arguing with Elijah that they had the first heavier-than-air machine.

It won't do, Rev. Hill; you've got to change the work.

Smart Turbans

BY JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

THE influence of Oriental ideas is more evident in our millinery styles than for many a year. The dressier turbans for evening wear appear to be pieces of rich fabric draped about the head and fastened with gorgeous looking ornaments of mock jewels. Gold and silver tissue and jeweled bands are used in these.

For day wear turbans made on larger frames show crowns in handsome fabrics, such as heavy brocades, tapestries and gold or silver tissues. Tinsel nets are draped over silk nets or lace. Nothing is more popular for the brims or "coronets" than bands of fur. This is, in fact, the furriest of seasons. Fur bands appear about the bottoms of handsome gowns for street or visiting and on the flimiest of fabrics for evening wear. Lace hats with collars of rich fur and hats of all descriptions share with the gowns the smart touch of fur.

For less expensive millinery the turban of velvet is the most effective that can be chosen. In order to get best results, a good quality of plain velvet is selected or one of the "panne" velvets in good colorings. The latter are a little less expensive than good quality in plain velvets.

Fancy feathers and wings are chosen for their decoration.

It takes about a yard and a half of velvet to make a turban. Rows of parallel shirrings confine the velvet to the frame, which may be either of wire or of buckram. A soft crown should be supported by a lining of crinoline.

Fabric hats are much in evidence. Silks, satins, velvets, brocades, tapestries, figured ribbons and colors of various descriptions, all are cast in the play for winter millinery, but velvet holds sway in the star part.

BARGAINS IN CHEAP STUFF

Few Deft Touches Will Frequently Give Garment an Entirely Different Appearance.

Often you will see real bargains in frocks and blouses on the ready-made counter. Do not give one look at the cheap lace or trimming, or at the way the seams are finished, and throw it back. Buy your bargain, take it home and redeem and regenerate it.

Cheap lace can be replaced by good; dainty tulle or net frills can take the place of cheap ruffles; seams can be restitched and coarse embroidery worked over by hand. If the material and the cut justify your buying the garment at all, you can give it an individual touch that will raise the value of your bargain 75 per cent.

And even where there is nothing noticeably cheap or common about the garment, try to give those little extra touches; then you will be in no danger of meeting your new gown on another woman at the next street corner.

USEFUL DRESSING JACKET.

Of cream flannel, finished at the edges with blanket stitch in old rose silk, and threaded with satin ribbon in same shade. This is a very easy pattern for the home dressmaker.

Improving a Blouse.

The most economical and satisfactory way of obtaining a hand-embroidered shirtwaist is to purchase a ready-made waist with machine embroidered design and work over the embroidery by hand, thus saving stamping, padding and making the waist. A blouse embroidered in this way will deceive the most expert needlewoman.

TWO PRETTY HOLIDAY GIFTS

Slipper Case or Sewing Bag Both a Welcome and Serviceable Present.

A slipper case and a sewing bag are delightful holiday gifts, which are easily made and very useful to the receiver. They may be made from any stray pieces of bright-colored silk, linen, chintz, satin, denim or, in fact, any material of that kind; or, if desired, the slipper case may be developed in pink-flowered cretonne bound with dark-green braid.

The loosely gathered sewing bag has an outside flap, which contains the needle book, and a pretty fancy is to embroider the owner's initials on the outside of the flap. Fancy brass rings are sewed to the upper edge, through which is run the ribbon which regulates the fullness about the top, and is used to hang it up by.

The slipper case, which is divided into compartments and stiffened by means of cardboard interlining, requires seven-eighths yard of material 22 inches wide or five-eighths yard 36 inches wide; either with 2¾ yards of tape to bind and two hangers. The sewing bag needs 1½ yards 22 or more inches wide, with 2½ yards of braid and seven rings.

Chenille Caps.

Parisian women have taken with enthusiasm to the new knitted caps of chenille, mostly in red and other bright colors, very flat, and untrimmed. These are warm, light and pretty, and will be much worn this winter for skating, etc., and as traveling caps. The idea originated with a little girl who sold dolls' caps of this sort at the Paris races.

Men Like Simplicity of Fare.

How many well-meaning housewives make the mistake in their over-zealous hospitality to furnish men guests with elaborate dishes, when simple, well-prepared foods would please the men so much more! Any hostess who will bear this fact in mind will not only save trouble, expense and time, but will also please her masculine guests to a greater extent.

Sash for Slender Figure.

The slender woman who cannot wear the too narrow girdle should try the sash with the "pump" or obi bow, worn in front, its folds arranged in perfectly flat loops and the whole of stiff, wide ribbon. The effect is most becoming and very easy to wear, besides extremely fashionable.

To Save Trouble.

From garments that have been laid aside, cut the strip containing the buttonholes, leaving enough material to turn under. Use this strip as a "fly" to new garments, thereby saving both time and labor.

KENTUCKY GLEANINGS

WHAT IS GOING ON IN DIFFERENT SECTIONS OF THE COMMONWEALTH

MORE AND BETTER CORN.

Proper Selection of Seed Should Produce Better Yield.

Frankfort.—Proper selection of seed corn and better cultivation of the ground in Kentucky will result in doubling and perhaps trebling the yield of corn, according to M. C. Rankin, commissioner of agriculture. Results obtained from the use of seed corn supplied by the state for experimental purposes indicate that it would be an easy matter to increase the yield two-fold and that in only one season. Kentucky is behind many of the western states in corn production. The average for an acre in Kentucky is less than thirty bushels, while the average for Kansas or Iowa is well over a hundreds bushels, and some land has been known to produce as high as 160 bushels. This extreme production, however, was only for one or two acres, and no large field of corn produced such an amount.

One of the principal reasons that Kentucky produces so small an average of corn to the acre is due to poor selection of seed corn, it is stated by the farm experts, and they believe that the time is coming when this state will be as good as any in the union in the matter of production. On account of the richness of the soil it is claimed that Kentucky should be near the top in production instead of being near the bottom, and the campaign for better seed corn will be continued all over the state.

It is stated that there are 4,500 hills to an acre of land planted in corn, and with two good ears to the hill the production would be great. The trouble has been that the farmer has not been getting the two good ears, and the corn that has been grown, even when there were two ears, has been small, so that it has taken more ears to make a bushel. The movement for better corn was started under Hubert Vreeland, commissioner of agriculture, and has been continued under Mr. Rankin It has already helped the average yield.

Kentucky's greatest opportunity, as far as utilization of the soil is concerned, is being overlooked in the mountains of Kentucky, according to Hugh McKee, of Woodford county, who was in Frankfort the other day on business with the department of agriculture.

The opportunity that is being overlooked, Mr. McKee believes, is the failure to cultivate apple orchards in the mountains of Kentucky. He says the land there is exactly suited to apples and would grow apples better than any other crop. He recently made a trip into Eastern Kentucky to lecture on corn growing and general farm work at farmers' institutes, and says he was surprised at the interest shown and the desire of the mountain farmers for information.

"An apple orchard in the Kentucky mountains, after it had a good start, with proper spraying of the trees and the use of the right kind of fertilizers, would make a man rich quickly," said Mr. McKee. "In the mountains we have ideal conditions for apples and they could grow apples up there that they could put on the market at a price under those of Oregon and western states where apple culture has become a science."

WILL KEEP CLOSER WATCH.

Frankfort.—In view of the escape of Arthur Miles, murderer of Bessie Smith, from the Hopkinsville asylum for the insane, Gov. Willson requested the board of control of charitable institutions to make an order that no superintendent of an asylum shall receive any convict from the penitentiary on lunacy inquests unless a professional examination shall have been made by one of physicians of the asylum, and the patient so examined found insane. The governor also asked the attorney general if he is authorized to offer a reward for the capture of Miles. As a result of numerous escapes from asylums the legislature probably will be asked to provide a hospital for insane criminals.

NINE DEAD IN A MINE.

Providence.—As a result of an explosion of gas in Mine No. 3 of The Providence Mining Co. 11 miners, two whites and nine negroes, are dead. No effort has yet been made to recover the bodies, as foul gases are issuing from the shaft and there is no possibility for any of the men to be alive.

Danville.—Mrs. Sam'l Gaston placed a hot brick in the bed with her two children to keep their feet warm. Later the screams of the children attracted her and it was found that the bed was burning and the building had been ignited.

Rockport.—Bernice Hill, 16, was shot and killed by Everett Baker, 17, while hunting. Baker pointed a shotgun at his companion, when it was discharged, the load taking effect in Hill's breast, tearing a jagged hole from which he bled to death.

COURT HOLDS LAW VALID.

Sheriff Will Collect More Money From Property Owners.

Frankfort.—The court of appeals in a long opinion by Judge O'Rear, which was concurred in by all the other judges, upheld the constitutionality of the legislative act providing for the state board of equalization. The style of the suits was Ray and others against Armstrong and others, from Jefferson county, and was an action asking that the clerk and sheriff of Jefferson county be enjoined from collecting taxes under the 12 per cent increase made by the state board on Jefferson county property.

Circuit Judge Miller, of Louisville, granted the injunction and the court orders it dissolved. The sheriff had to obey the injunction as long as it was not dissolved, so he has been collecting taxes less the 12 per cent increase, and now he will have to collect the 12 per cent additional from each taxpayer who has paid.

The opinion contains 38 typewritten pages and takes up all the questions numerically besides every one in favor of the contention of the state that the state board had the right to make the Jefferson county raise.

Taxpayers of Jefferson county will have to pay some $160,000 additional in the way of state and county taxes as a result of the decision. The reversal of Judge Miller means that the county will have to pay on an increase of 12 per cent, or $20,000,000, in its assessment.

A FEW RAILWAY FIGURES.

Frankfort.—D. B. Cornett, secretary of the state railroad commission, made public the last annual assessment of the railroad tangible property by the commission, as follows:

Value of mileage, $50,975,971; gain for year, $684,068; value of other property, $6,994,415; gain for year, $149,520; total mileage, 3,625; gain for year, 66 miles. The rate clerk, Roy Wilhoit, is preparing statistics showing gross and net receipts for all railroads operating in Kentucky for the year.

Kentucky State News Items

Russellville.—The State Farmers' institute for Logan county was held here December 2 and 3. An interesting program was rendered.

Frankfort.—William Baker, 21, was shot in the right foot and seriously injured by the accidental discharge of his gun while climbing over a fence.

Louisville.—A cellar grating on Market street became charged with electricity and Edward Ellenga was hurled several feet and rendered unconscious.

Campton.—This city is to have a newspaper to be called the Olio. Erwin Elam will be the editor and the first issue is expected to appear about December 15.

Acton.—While attempting to drill out a hole containing a charge of dynamite Alex. Jenkins was instantly killed. He was hurled 50 feet and was horribly mangled.

Frankfort.—Bees Onward by Onward dam Blush, owned by A. D. Martin, of this city, died at the Frankfort fair grounds of distemper. The stallion was bred here by the late Col. Robert Pepper. He was one of the highly prized sons of Onward.

Lexington.—H. M. DeMoss has resigned from the Lexington fire department to become a minister of the Gospel. He will begin his studies is a Louisville theological school. "I'm not going to change my occupation," said DeMoss, in taking leave of his comrades. "I'm merely changing the form of fire-fighting—from the physical to the spiritual, you know."

Morganfield.—The large barn, granary and buggy houses on the farm of Matt Mason and Miss Mary Mason were burned to the ground, entailing a loss of all the recently gathered corn crop, 1,800 bushels, baled and loose hay in abundance for the winter, five calves, four buggies and express wagon, all farming implements, harnesses, etc.

Hopkinsville.—Arthur Miles, slayer of Bessie Stith on the streets of Louisville, and William Proctor escaped from the Western Kentucky asylum for the insane. Miles had been sent to the asylum after being sentenced to death. When all patients were out for exercise, the two overpowered the attendant on duty, bound and gagged him with the bed clothing and took his keys, making their escape.

Cynthiana.—At the hearing of Adam Rhell, charged with attempting to poison his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rhell, by putting strychnine in their cistern, the son was held for the grand jury. Circumstantial evidence showed that Rhell purchased poison at a drug store. The elder Rhell and his wife accuse their son of attempting to kill them so he could inherit his father's estate, which is reputed to be worth $50,000.

Frankfort.—L. R. Bain was accidentally shot and killed by P. J. Spence, at Lawton, Okla., while the men were examining a stock of firearms. Mr. Spence noticed a gun on the end of the counter and remarked to Mr. Bain that such things were dangerous and should not be lying around. Mr. Bain leaves a widow, who is a daughter of James E. Stone, clerk of Kentucky's house of representatives.

Frankfort.—Estimates for river and harbor improvements have been presented to the treasury department The Kentucky river estimate is for $100,000.

COLDS
Cured in One Day

"I regard my cold cure as being better than a Life Insurance Policy."—MUNYON.

A few doses of Munyon's Cold Cure will break up any cold and prevent pneumonia. It relieves the head, throat and lungs almost instantly. These little sugar pellets can be conveniently carried in the vest pocket for use at any time or anywhere. Price 25 cents at any druggists.

If you need Medical Advice write to Munyon's Doctors. They will carefully diagnose your case and give you advice by mail, absolutely free. They put you under no obligations.

Address Munyon's Doctors, Munyon's Laboratory, 53d and Jefferson streets, Philadelphia, Pa.

AS REPRESENTED.

Patient—Look here, doctor; you said if I took a bottle of your tonic I would have a remarkable appetite. Why, I only eat one soda cracker each week.

Doctor—Well, don't you call that a remarkable appetite?

BABY'S SCALP CRUSTED

"Our little daughter, when three months old, began to break out on the head and we had the best doctors to treat her, but they did not do her any good. They said she had eczema. Her scalp was a solid scale all over. The burning and itching was so severe that she could not rest, day or night. We had about given up all hopes when we read of the Cuticura Remedies. We at once got a cake of Cuticura Soap, a box of Cuticura Ointment and one bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, and followed directions carefully. After the first dose of the Cuticura Resolvent, we used the Cuticura Soap freely and applied the Cuticura Ointment. Then she began to improve rapidly and in two weeks the scale came off her head and new hair began to grow. In a very short time she was well. She is now sixteen years of age and a picture of health. We used the Cuticura Remedies about five weeks, regularly, and then we could not tell she had been affected by the disease. We used no other treatment after we found out what the Cuticura Remedies would do for her. J. Fish and Ella M. Fish, Mt. Vernon, Ky., Oct. 12, 1909."

Hardly a Compliment.

In the excitement of the moment public speakers often say the opposite of what they mean to convey, and "when Henry Irving gave a reading in the Ulster hall, in 1878," says Bram Stoker, in "Personal Reminiscences of Henry Irving," "one speaker made as pretty an Irish bull as could be found, though the bull is generally supposed to belong to other provinces than the hard-headed Ulster. In descanting on the many virtues of the guest of the evening he mentioned the excellence of his moral nature and rectitude of his private life in these terms: "Mr. Irving, sir, is a gentleman what leads a life of unbroken blemish.'"

SANITATION IN SCHOOLS

Physical Health and Strength Are Essential to a Vigorous Mind.

Keeping the skin in good condition is so important to the general health that it should receive especial attention at school. The school lavatory as well as the home bathroom, should be furnished with Resinol Soap, because it removes the germ-laden dust of the playground and street atmosphere better than anything else. It prevents the advent of contagious skin troubles and keeps the complexion fresh, rosy and smooth as that of youth should be. No child should be hampered or disfigured with skin eruptions when a few applications of Resinol Ointment will cure them. Eczema, Acne, Rashes, Sores, Pimples and blotches are quickly cured with this easily applied remedy, and it should be kept in every home so that it can be used at the first appearance of skin troubles.

Students who shave will find the Resinol Medicated Shaving Stick the best. It is highly recommended by physicians and skin specialists to keep the face free from pimples and eruptions. Its soothing, healing lather counteracts any irritation or tenderness from shaving too close. Resinol Soap and Ointment can be obtained wherever the best toilet articles are sold.

Booklet on "Care of the Skin and Complexion" sent free. Resinol Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.

McLean Met His Match.

John R. McLean stepped in front of a lurching Irishman one evening and obstructed the sidewalk so that the Irishman was obliged to stop and look at him. McLean said:

"Here's that half dollar I berrowed of you. Now you must quit telling the neighbors that I never pay my debts."

Half drunk, and wholly dazed, the Irishman took the silver piece, looked at it intently, and then said:

"Be dad, yez can't get off thot alsy. It wor a whole dollar that yez borryd; so fork over."

And he forked over another half dollar, and went his way, laughing heartily at the quick wit of the Irishman.—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

Doctors Were Thorough.

A physician at a dinner in Denver sneered at certain Biblical miracles.

"Lazarus," he said, "was raised from the dead—and yet I don't see any dead folks being raised in our time."

"No," said Rev. Herbert H. Tresham, the Biblical scholar, with a smile. "Modern medical science has progressed too far for that, eh?"—Washington Star.

END STOMACH TROUBLE NOW

Dyspepsia, Gas, Sourness or Indigestion Go Five Minutes After Taking a Little Diapepsin.

If your meals don't fit comfortably, or you feel bloated after eating, and you believe it is the food which fills you; if what little you eat lies like lead on your stomach; if there is difficulty in breathing, eructations of sour, undigested food and acid, heartburn, brash or a belching of gas, you can make up your mind that you need something to stop food fermentation and cure indigestion.

A large case of Pape's Diapepsin costs only fifty cents at any drug store here in town, and will convince any stomach sufferer five minutes after taking a single dose that Fermentation and Sour Stomach is causing the misery of indigestion.

No matter if you call your trouble Catarrh of the Stomach, Dyspepsia, Nervousness or Gastritis, or by any other name—always remember that a certain cure is waiting at your drug store the moment you decide to begin its use.

Pape's Diapepsin will regulate any out-of-order Stomach within five minutes, and digest promptly, without any fuss or discomfort, all of any kind of food you eat.

These large 50-cent cases contain more than sufficient to thoroughly cure any chronic case of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Gastritis or any other Stomach trouble.

Should you at this moment be suffering from Indigestion, Gas, Sourness or any stomach disorder, you can surely get relief within five minutes.

There is not a vice which more effectually contracts and deadens the feelings than the desire of accumulating possessions.—Mant.

ROUND ABOUT THE STATE

MOST IMPORTANT NEWS GATHERED FROM ALL PARTS OF KENTUCKY

ELECTION COMMISSIONERS

Find Democrats Carried Kentucky By a Majority of 26,722.

Frankfort.—By the old-time majority of 26,722 the Democrats carried Kentucky at the last election.

The returns from the state November election were canvassed by the state board of election commissioners, all the counties being found regular.

The following shows the vote for each district candidate for congress:

First District—James, Dem., 11,574; Harney, Rep., 1,389.

Second District—Stanley, Dem. 12,040; Salmon, Rep., 6,902; Royster, Pro., 417.

Third District—Thomas, Dem., 16,063; Jones, Rep., 14,850; Cassady, Pro., 373.

Fourth District—Johnson, Dem., 13,263; Gaddie, Rep., 11,952.

Fifth District—Sherley, Dem., 21,437; McGee, Rep., 17,376.

Sixth District—Rouse, Dem., 15,454; Nagel, Rep., 11,007; Lanfersick, Soc., 1,337.

Seventh District—Cantrill Dem., 13,858; Rankin, Rep., 10,877.

Sixth—Lassing, Dem., 31,158; Tomlin, Rep., 25,604.

FROM THE OIL FIELDS.

Development Work Has Been Pushed While Good Weather Permitted.

Lexington.—While results in Kentucky petroleum fields for a few days past has been confined to lower Kentucky district competition in that end show a good average production and are more numerous than usual. The weather during the greater part of this month has been excellent from the driller's standpoint, and much has been accomplished in the drilling of leases and developing of new territory.

The best of late strikes in the Kentucky field was a twenty-five barrel well drilled by Pennsylvania operators in the established section of Mt. Pisgah. The new strike is above the average for that district, and shows up as one of the best completions for November.

While new capital has been scarce in the Kentucky petroleum fields during the past few months, the older companies have been pushing development work, and the average number of completions and the aggregate new production compare favorably with the figures of last fall.

HELD TO HIS BARGAIN.

Frankfort.—The case of the Hospital College of Medicine against H. A. Davidson, from Jefferson, was reversed. Davidson paid a certain sum, or gave his notes for the sum, for a chair or professorship in the Hospital College of Medicine before that institution was merged with the Louisville Medical college. The court says that Davidson acquiesced in the merger and accepted an appointment as professor in the new institution, and is therefore barred now from making any complaint that the merger terminated the contract entered into at the time he bought the professorship. This decision means that he must pay the remainder of the notes he gave for the purchase price of the professorship, amounting originally to $3,000.

CORPORATION TAXES.

Kentucky Companies Paid a Quarter of a Million Dollars.

Frankfort.—Of the $21,000,000 collected through the special excise tax paid by corporations, Kentucky furnished over $250,000. In the state 4,186 returns were received. The amount of capital stock is given at $361,060,752.81; the amount of bonded and other indebtedness at $283,794,978.41, and the net income at $31,422,849.29.

FOUGHT WITH WILDCATS.

Vine Grove.—John Reesor, farmer, had a very narrow escape from being killed by two wildcats. He heard his dog barking and procuring his gun found that the dog had two large wildcats treed. Reesor fired and killed one of them and the other immediately jumped out of the tree and pounced upon the dog. Reesor went to the assistance of his dog and the wildcat then jumped on him and the dog came to his master's aid and succeeded in whipping off the cat.

OFFICIAL SCORE CARD.

Department of Agriculture Issues Instructions.

Frankfort.—M. C. Rankin, commissioner of agriculture, has issued the score card to be used by the Kentucky Corn Growers' association in judging exhibits at the coming state corn show to be held at the college of agriculture in Lexington, January 3-6, along with instructions pertaining to exhibits as follows:

Corn for exhibit should be selected as soon as it is thoroughly matured. It should be husked and hang up in a dry, well ventilated place where it will be safe from mice and weevil.

Each exhibit will consist of ten ears, unless otherwise specified. The corn should be selected to conform as nearly as possible to the points on the score card.

Every exhibitor is required to take membership in the association. The membership fee is 50 cents per year and will entitle the member to exhibit in all classes. However, boys under 18 years of age may exhibit free of charge.

The five best samples in the various classes will be eligible for exhibit at the National Corn show. No corn will be admitted to the National Corn show that has not been exhibited at the state show. Kentucky did not have enough corn at the national show last year to take all the premiums offered. Let every farmer who is interested in Kentucky's corn crop become a member of the Kentucky Corn Growers' association and make an exhibit. The premium list will be issued soon. If you are interested, save your best corn and send your name to George Roberts, secretary, Lexington, Ky., and receive a premium list when they come out.

EDUCATORS MEET.

Paris.—Addresses by Dr. Thomas B. McCartney, of Lexington, on "Purpose of Secondary or High Schools," and Prof. Milton Elliott, of Lexington, on "Possibilities of the High School," folowed by a general discussion of the subjects by the members of the association, were the main features of the closing day's program of the Ashland District Educational association's meeting. After hearing reports of the various committees and disposing of miscellaneous business the following new officers were elected to serve the coming year: President, Superintendent M. A. Cassidy, Lexington; first vice president, Superintendent H. C. McKee, Frankfort; second vice president, Prof. J. S. Johnson, Paris; secretary and treasurer, Miss Mattie Hughes, Paris. After the installation of the new officers the association adjourned, to meet next October in Lexington.

FOR BETTER ROADS.

Louisville.—The initial step looking toward comprehensive road betterment in Kentucky was taken when a special committee composed of good roads boosters from all sections of the state framed a tentative bill to be placed before the next general assembly. This bill provides for the appointment of a state highway commissioner, whose duty it shall be to provide plans and specifications for new roads where state aid is provided. He shall have two assistants and hold office four years. All counties building new roads and desiring state help must apply to the commissioner. A tax levy of 5 cents on each $100 worth of assessable property in the state is suggested.

WENDLING CASE IS ON.

Louisville.—Mrs. Cora Muena, of Hume, Mo., a milliner, who furnished the clew which led to the capture of Joseph Wendling, alleged murderer of Alma Kellner, will appear as one of the chief witnesses of the prosecution in the Wendling case. Mrs. Muena is a widow, who became engaged to Wendling while on a visit to relatives in San Antonio, Tex. She says the publicity she got through the Wendling case ruined her business and she was forced to sell out.

Frankfort.—The department of Education has begun mailing to teachers copies of the Library Bulletin. This bulletin gives a list of the 1,000 best books adapted to use in school libraries. The list is classified and indexed.

Lexington.—Subscribing from $5 to $10 each to a fund for that purpose, between fifty and sixty prominent citizens of Lexington and Fayette county who are interested in the preservation of game in this section have undertaken to stock Fayette county with the celebrated Hungarian partridges, which birds are twice as large as the American quail; are nonmigratory and multiply rapidly. One hundred pairs of these birds were recently ordered through Secretary J. R. Williamson direct from a noted fancier near Brussels, Belgium.

Frankfort.—In cities of the first class in Kentucky the commonwealth has no interest in the property that escheats to the school board for school purposes. The court of appeals arrived at this decision in deciding the case of the Commonwealth against Emma Thomas, administrator. Emma Thomas died without heirs and her property was escheated to the school board, but Auditor James appointed A. W. Dorsey to make a claim for the state, as he held that the sovereign rights of the state could not be surrendered by an act of the legislature.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

Commissioner of Agriculture Announces Dates.

Frankfort.—Dates for county farmers' institutes in the second appellate district were announced as follows by M. C. Rankin, commissioner of agriculture:

First District—Muhlenberg, Greenville, Ky., November 25-26; Hopkins Madisonville, Ky., November 28-29; Webster, Dixon, Ky., November 30-December 1; Union, Morganfield, Ky. December 2-3; C. S. Kirk, director, T. J. Perking, director; F. G. Odell lecturer; W. L. Proctor.

Second District—Edmonson, Brownsville, December 5-6; Warren, Bowling Green, December 7-8; Butler, Morgantown, December 9-10; Grayson, Leitchfield, December 13-14. W. T. Kane director; George P. Rogers, lecturer; Amos Hall.

Third District—Meade, Brandenburg, December 5-6; Breckenridge Hardinsburg, December 7-8; Hancock Hawesville, December 9-10; Daviess, Owensboro,—December 12-13. W. H. Strange, director; W. H. Clayton, lecturer; J. C. Baldwin, lecturer.

Fourth District—Ohio, Hartford, December 5-6; McLean, Livermore, December 7-8; Henderson, Henderson, December 9-10. John G. Blair, director; W. D. Nichols, lecturer; John Hulsy, organizer.

HERRON ACQUITTED.

Marion.—After being in their room all day the jury in the James Herron case returned a verdict of not guilty. He was indicted for the murder of Fred Daugherty, a friend and neighbor with whom he had had a dispute over some trivial matter Christmas eve day in 1908.

News in Brief

Mayfield.—The jury in the "Dick" Moore murder case returned a verdict fixing his punishment at five years in the state prison. At the former trial he was given eight years and was granted a new trial. Moore shot and killed Jesse Cooley on the night of April 3, 1909.

Wickliffe.—The meeting of the First District Educational association finished its program after the most successful convention since its organization. The principal address was delivered by Dr. P. P. Claxton, of Knoxville, Tenn. The Ballard City Farmers' institute also concluded its session.

Lexington.—Dr. J. C. Willis, formerly of Louisville, who, since the organization of the Bank of Kentucky here, has been its president, has resigned that position. Capt. Ed Farley, state treasurer, was elected president. Capt. Farley will continue to act as state treasurer, which will not conflict with his duties as president of the bank.

Carlisle.—Nicholas county turkey crop, though shorter than usual, is estimated at $35,000. Local dealers shipped close to 10,000 of the birds to eastern markets for Thanksgiving, and will soon begin to receive and dress for the Christmas market. One firm paid over $10,000 to Nicholas county women for Thanksgiving turkeys.

Lexington.—Judge Henry S. Barker, who, on January 1, will become president of Kentucky State university, made his first formal visit to the university since the announcement of his election had been made. He plunged straight through the line of new acquaintanceship and kicked an easy goal to the hearts of the students when he attended the football rally.

Campton.—Hiram Blankenship, of Hazel Green, suffered the loss of a valuable mare. He believed the animal was poisoned. An investigation showed traces of arsenic poisoning. About three months ago the barn, a lot of forage, wagon, harness and two horses, belonging to Mr. Blankenship were burned, and incendiarism was suspected, although no clew was ever found.

Harrodsburg.—A farmer shot and wounded William and James Griffin, aged 9 and 15 years. A shotgun loaded with heavy birdshot was used, and the older boy was shot in the breast and face and dangerously hurt, while the younger one was struck on the arm. The boys were on their way to look after some traps they had set, and say the farmer stepped from behind a tree and fired at them.

Versailles.—The conference of chairmen of the home mission committees of the various presbyteries in Kentucky and of Presbyterian laymen, prominently identified with mission work, which was called by Dr. A. J. A. Alexander, met at his home, Woodburn. The purpose of the conference was to secure more co-operation and to devise more effective ways and means for the extension of mission work in this state. Temporary organization was effected, with Mr. T. T. Foreman, of Lexington, chairman.

Lexington.—Newspaper men from all parts of the Seventh and Eighth districts, members of the Newspaper league, will be entertained in Lexington Saturday night with a dinner by the Ben Franklin club. Many of the newspaper men and printers from Lexington and surrounding towns of the Bluegrass are expected to be present. Thomas M. Owsley and J. H. Wiedekemper, of Louisville, will be the principal speakers.

Nicholasville.—The grocery store and residence of William Barker burned. The family was away and the origin of the fire is unknown.

CONVICTION OF WENDLING

Is Not Satisfied With the Verdict and His Attorneys Will Take an Appeal.

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 4 —The attorney of Joseph Wendling, sentenced for life for the murder of Alma Kellner, probably tomorrow will file a formal motion for a new trial. The motion will be based on affidavits already in the court records which charge that Juror Richard Jennings had formed and expressed an opinion as to Wendling's guilt. Wendling spent a quiet day in jail.

It has developed that only two ballots were taken by the jurors during their consideration of the case. It was learned that as soon as they retired to make up their verdict, a ballot was taken, the result of which was seven votes for the death penalty and five for acquittal. The final verdict of guilty, with life imprisonment as punishment, was a compromise reached after three hours' deliberation.

As the conviction of Wendling establishes the fact that murder was committed in St. John's church, the nave of the Roman Catholic Church demands that this edifice be reconsecrated. The church canon on this point is clear. It sets forth that when it has been proved, or when it is a matter of public knowledge, that murder has been committed in a church, then that church is desecrated and can no longer be used for public worship. However, the bishop of the diocese has to declare this to be the case, and then the church is locked and barred and the blessed sacrament is removed from it. None of the rites can be solemnized there again until the bishop has returned and with the impressive ceremonies of the church re consecrated it.

Rewards by the city, State and private individuals aggregating $6 000 were offered for "the arrest and conviction" of Alma Kellner's murderer. Attorneys connected with the trial were unable to say whe her these rewards may be collected before the Court of Appeals finally passes on the case, if the case is appealed, and none of them will venture to say how the reward money will be divided.

Capt. J. P. Carney, chief of detectives, who traveled several thousand miles to capture Wendling, has waived his right to any portion of the reward.

Others who were connected directly or remotely with the capture have asked for portions of the money.

The greatest danger from influenza is of its resulting in pneumonia. This can be obviated by using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, as it not only cures influenza, but counteracts any tendency of the disease toward pneumonia. Sold by Haydon & Robertson.

Death of Mrs. Sallie Mattingly.

On last Saturday, December 3rd, at 11 o'clock a. m., Mrs. Sallie Mattingly passed away at the home of her son-in-law, John F. Simms. Mrs. Mattingly's death was directly due to uraemic poisoning and indirectly to burns sustained two weeks prior to her death and the consequent nervous shock. For some days after the accident suffered by the deceased, it was thought that she would recover, but the shock was too great for one of her age and it was soon seen that death was a question of but a short time. Services were held at St. Dominic's church Sunday morning, after which the remains were taken to Lebanon for interment.

Mrs. Mattingly was seventy five years old and was a member of a remarkable family. Before her death five generations of her family were living; her mother, Mrs. Cynthia Thompson, who is 97 years of age, herself, her daughter, Mrs. Simms, her granddaughter, Mrs. John Kelly, and Mrs. Kelly's baby. It is doubtful whether there is another family in the State with representatives of five generations. Mrs. Mattingly was the widow of the late Martin Mattingly, who died about twenty years ago. Beside her venerable mother she is survived by the following children: Mrs. Cynthia Waterman, of Ogdensburg, N. Y., Mrs. John F. Simms, of this place, Mrs. Frank Simms, of Nelson county, Ben J. and L. F. Mattingly, of Lebanon, and John and Bernard Mattingly of Louisville, all high standing, respected citizens, whose position in life is greatly due to the training of a Christian mother. The deceased, throughout her life, had been a faithful and consistent member of the Catholic church. For about seven years she had made her home with Mr. John F. Simms, where, in her old age, she was shown the greatest consideration and where, during her last illness, all was done for her that loving hearts and hands could do.

Russell—Campbell.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon, at the parlors of Father Clark, of Louisville, who performed the ceremony, Miss Pearl Campbell and William J. Russell were made man and wife. The ceremony was very quiet, being witnessed by only a few friends and relatives of the contracting parties. The attendants were Misses Myrtle and Bessie Campbell and G. Ray Goodin, of Lebanon. Mr. and Mrs Russell will return on the evening train and will make their home at this place.

The bride is the youngest daughter of the late F. M. Campbell and for several years has been a popular member of the younger social set in Springfield. Mr. Russell is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed M. Russell, and is engaged in business with his father. He is one of the best known and most popular of Springfield's young men.

Local Tobacco Notes.

On last Thursday the Washington County Warehouse, the Farmers' Warehouse, and the Springfield Warehouse opened the local loose leaf tobacco sales and about 75,000 pounds were sold by the three houses, but as the article of tobacco put on was of a low grade, the prices realized were not high. Since the opening day, however, other sales have been held, at which the prices paid for tobacco have been more satisfactory. No doubt after the worst tobacco has been disposed of and a better grade put on the market the prices will soar.

The Planters' House held its first sale yesterday and the prices realized were good, one crop, that of Clarkson & Tranor, averaging 14½ cents.

The sales on the local market compare very favorably indeed with those of the Louisville market. The Louisville market records a sale of 400,000 pounds of new tobacco during the week ending Dec. 3 at an average of 7½c, while the sales on this market are averaging 8¼ cents.

The peculiar properties of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy have been thoroughly tested during epidemics of influenza, and when it is taken in time we have not heard of a single case of pneumonia Sold by Haydon & Robertson.

Local News Notes.

FOR SALE:—Or rent for the year 1911 a modern 5-room cottage on Covington avenue. F. C. MOORE.

The following citizens of the county have been named Supervisors to pass upon the assessment of Washington county property for 1911.

C. L. Price, Rich Smith, Henry Hilton, John H. Gordon and Bruce Williams.

Washington county's population according to the 1910 census is 13,940. In 1900 the population was, 14,182 making a less in ten years of 242 inhabitants or a per cent equal to 1.7. Washington county is not the only county to lose in population as 42 other counties in the State show a decrease.

Official announcement was made yesterday by the Census Bureau of the population of Kentucky, showing that there are now 2,289,905 persons on the Federal census rolls.

This is an increase of 142,731 over the population of Kentucky in 1900, or an increase of 6.6 per cent, in the State's population. The figures tally almost exactly with those published Sunday morning in the Courier-Journal, and incidentally, it may be mentioned that this is the first instance of a "leak" in the present census returns, and the only State whose population has been given in advance from any source.

Having purchased an interest in the firm of Cunningham & Duncan, I take this means of notifying my friends and patrons that I will be glad to see my friends and will grant them all the favors in my power. Thanking you for past favors and soliciting your future patronage I beg to remain.

Sincerely yours
Wm. H. Wharton.

WANTED:—Copies of the Saturday Evening Post, from Oct. 24 to Nov. 22 inclusive. Ed. M. Russell.

NOTICE.—Be it resolved and enacted, this 29th day of November, 1910, that no Warehouse Co doing business under the rules of the Springfield Tobacco Association shall be permitted to offer or give any cash prize or premium in any kind of competition.

WHAT CURES ECZEMAb

We have had so many inquires lately regarding Eczema and other skin diseases, that we are glad to make our answer public. After careful investigation we have found that a simple wash of Oil of Wintergreen, as compounded in D. D. D. can be relied upon. We would not make this statement to our patrons, friends and neighbors unless we were sure of it—and although there are many so called Eczema remedies sold, we ourselves unhesitatingly recommend D. D. D. prescription.

Because we know that it gives instant relief to that torturing itch.

Because—D. D. D. starts the cure at the foundation of the trouble.

Because—It cleanses, soothes and heals the skin.

Because it enables nature to repair the ravages of disease.

Because the records of ten years of complete cures of thousands of the most serious cases show that D. D. D. is today recognized as the absolutely reliable Eczema Cure.

Drop into our store to-day, just to talk over your case with us.

NEW LAW AS TO VITAL STATISTICS

Provides that the State Board of Health Shall Appoint a Registrar in Each District.

Among the laws enacted by the last Legislature is one in regard to vital statistics or statistics of births and death. It is quite voluminous and covers a dozen or more pages of printed matter. It provides that the State Board of Health shall appoint a Registrar in each district. On the occasion of a birth the attending physician or midwife shall report the date, sex and other things to the Registrar. Where a person dies the undertaker must report the name, place, cause of death and numous other important and necessary particulars to the Registrar. No sexton or undertaker is allowed to bury cremate or place in the vault the body of any person without making the proper report under penalty of a fine, ranging from twenty to one hundred dollars. Each incorporated city or town shall be a sparate district and Registrras shall be appointed also, for the country districts. Printed blanks or these reports are to be provided by the State Board of Health. There are many other provisions of the law but these are among the most prominent. The law goes into effect on January 1st. Mrs. I. A. Shirley has been appointed Registrar for the city, but if any apointments have been made for the country precincts we have not heard of them.

The MAN in LOWER TEN

By MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

AUTHOR of THE CIRCULAR STAIRCASE

ILLUSTRATIONS by M. G. KETTNER

COPYRIGHT BY BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

"And There's Johnson Just Behind, the Coolest Proposition in Washington."

SYNOPSIS.

Lawrence Blakeley, lawyer, goes to Pittsburg with the forged notes in the Bronson case to get the deposition of John Gilmore, millionaire. In the latter's home he is attracted by a picture of a young girl whom the millionaire explains is his granddaughter. A lady requests Blakeley to buy her a Pullman ticket. He gives her lower eleven and retains lower ten. He finds a drunken man in lower ten and retires in lower nine. He awakens in lower seven and finds his clothes and bag missing. The man in lower ten is found murdered. Circumstantial evidence places both Blakeley and the unknown man who had exchanged clothes with him, under suspicion of murder. Blakeley becomes interested in a girl in blue. The train is wrecked. Blakeley is rescued from the burning car by the girl in blue. His arm is broken. They go to the Carter place for breakfast. The girl proves to be Allison West, his partner's sweetheart. Her peculiar actions mystify the lawyer. She drops her gold bag and Blakeley puts it in his pocket. Blakeley returns home. He finds that he is under surveillance and hears of strange doings in the house next door.

CHAPTER XV.—Continued.

As we turned the corner I glanced back. Half a block behind us Johnson was moving our way slowly. When he saw me he stopped and proceeded with great deliberation to light a cigar. By hurrying, however, he caught the car that we took, and stood unobtrusively on the rear platform. He looked fagged, and absent-mindedly paid our fares, to McKnight's delight.

"We will give him a run for his money," he declared, as the car moved countryward. "Conductor, let us off at the muddiest lane you can find."

At one o'clock, after a six-mile ramble, we entered a small country hotel. We had seen nothing of Johnson for a half hour. At that time he was a quarter of a mile behind us, and losing rapidly. Before we had finished our luncheon he staggered into the inn. One of his boots was under his arm, and his whole appearance was deplorable. He was coated with mud, streaked with perspiration, and he limped as he walked. He chose a table not far from us and ordered Scotch. Beyond touching his hat he paid no attention to us.

"I'm just getting my second wind," McKnight declared. "How do you feel, Mr. Johnson? Six or eight miles more and we'll all enjoy our dinners." Johnson put down the glass he had raised to his lips without replying.

The fact was, however, that I was like Johnson. I was soft from my week's inaction, and I was pretty well done up. McKnight, who was a well-spring of vitality and high spirits, ordered a strange concoction, made of nearly everything in the bar, and sent it over to the detective, but Johnson refused it.

"I hate that kind of person," McKnight said pettishly. "Kind of a fellow that thinks you're going to poison his dog if you offer him a bone."

When we got to the car line, with Johnson a draggled and drooping tail to the kite, I was in better spirits. I had told McKnight the story of the three hours just after the wreck; I had not named the girl, of course; she had my promise of secrecy. But I told him everything else. It was a relief to have a fresh mind on it: I had puzzled so much over the incident at the farm-house, and the necklace in the gold bag, that I had lost perspective.

He had been interested, but inclined to be amused, until I came to the broken chain. Then he had whistled softly.

"But there are tons of fine gold chains made every year," he said. "Why in the world do you think that the—er—smear piece came from that necklace?"

I had looked around. Johnson was far behind, scraping the mud off his vest with a piece of stick.

"I have the short end of the chain in the sealskin bag," I reminded him. "When I couldn't sleep this morning I thought I would settle it, one way or the other. It was hell to go along the way I had been doing. And—there's no doubt about it, Rich. It's the same chain."

We walked along in silence until we caught the car back to town.

"Well," he said finally, "you know the girl, of course, and I don't. But if you like her—and I think myself you're rather hard hit, old man—I wouldn't give a whoop about the chain in the gold purse. It's just one of the little coincidences that hang people now and then. And as for last night—if she's the kind of a girl you say she is, and you think she had anything to do with that, you—you're addled, that's all. You can depend on it, the lady of the empty house last week is the lady of last night. And yet your train acquaintance was in Altoona at that time."

Just before we got off the car, I reverted to the subject again. It was never far back in my mind.

"About the—young lady of the train, Rich," I said, with what I suppose was elaborate carelessness, "I don't want you to get a wrong impression. I am rather unlikely to see her again, but even if I do, I—I believe she is already 'bespoke,' or next thing to it."

He made no reply, but as I opened the door with my latch-key he stood looking up at me from the pavement with his quizzical smile.

"Love is like the measles," he orated. "The older you get it, the worse the attack."

Johnson did not appear again that day. A small man in a raincoat took his place. The next morning I made my initial trip to the office, the raincoat still on hand, I had a short conference with Miller, the district attorney, at 11. Bronson was under surveillance, he said, and any attempt to sell the notes to him would probably result in their recovery. In the meantime, as I knew, the Commonwealth had continued the case, in hope of such contingency.

At noon I left the office and took a veterinarian to see Candida, the injured pony. By one o'clock my first day's duties were performed, and a long Sahara of hot afternoon stretched ahead. McKnight, always glad to escape from the grind, suggested a vaudeville, and in sheer ennui I consented. I could neither ride, drive nor golf, and my own company bored me to distraction.

"Coolest place in town these days," he declared. "Electric fans, breezy songs, airy costumes. And there's Johnson just behind—the coolest proposition in Washington."

He gravely bought three tickets and presented the detective with one. Then we went in. Having lived a normal, busy life, the theater in the afternoon is to me about on a par with ice cream for breakfast. Up on the stage a very stout woman in short pink skirts, with a smile that McKnight declared looked like a slash in a roll of butter, was singing nasally, with a laborious kick at the end of each verse. Johnson, two rows ahead, went to sleep. McKnight prodded me with his elbow.

"Look at the first box to the right," he said, in a stage whisper. "I want you to come over at the end of this act."

It was the first time I had seen her since I put her in the cab at Baltimore. Outwardly I presume I was calm, for no one turned to stare at me, but every atom of me cried out at the sight of her. She was leaning, bent forward, lips slightly parted, gazing raptly at the Japanese conjurer who had replaced what McKnight disrespectfully called the Columns of Hercules. Compared with the draggled lady of the farm house, she was radiant.

For that first moment there was nothing but joy at the sight of her. McKnight's touch on my arm brought me back to reality.

"Come over and meet them," he said. "That's the cousin Miss West is visiting, Mrs. Dallas."

But I would not go. After he went I sat there alone, painfully conscious that I was being pointed out and stared at from the box. The abominable Japanese gave way to yet more atrocious performing dogs.

"How many offers of marriage will the young lady in the box have?" The dog stopped sagely at "none," and then pulled out a card that said eight. Wild shouts of glee by the audience. "The fools," I muttered.

After a little I glanced over. Mrs. Dallas was talking to McKnight, but she was looking straight at me. She was flushed, but more calm than I, and she did not bow. I fumbled for my hat, but the next moment I saw that they were going, and I sat still. When McKnight came back he was triumphant.

"I've made an engagement for you," he said. "Mrs. Dallas asked me to bring you to dinner to-night, and I said I knew you would fall all over yourself to go. You are requested to bring along the broken arm, and any other souvenirs of the wreck that you may possess."

"I'll do nothing of the sort," I declared, struggling against my inclination. "I can't even tie my necktie, and I have to have my food cut for me."

"Oh, that's all right," he said easily. "I'll send Stogie over to fix you up, and Mrs. Dal knows all about the arm. I told her."

(Stogie is his Japanese factotum, so called because he is lean, a yellowish brown in color, and because he claims to have been shipped into this country in a box.)

The cinematograph was finishing the program. The house was dark and the music had stopped, as it does in the circus just before somebody risks his neck at so much a neck in the dip of death, or the hundred-foot dive. Then, with a sort of shock, I saw on the white curtain the announcement:

THE NEXT PICTURE

IS THE DOOMED WASHINGTON FLIER, TAKEN A SHORT DISTANCE FROM THE SCENE OF THE WRECK ON THE FATAL MORNING OF SEPTEMBER TENTH, TWO MILES FARTHER ON IT MET WITH ALMOST COMPLETE ANNIHILATION

I confess to a return of some of the sickening sensations of the wreck; people around me were leaning forward with tense faces. Then the letters were gone and I saw a long level stretch of track, even the broken stone between the ties standing out distinctly. Far off under a cloud of smoke a small object was rushing toward us and growing larger as it came.

Now it was on us, a mammoth in size, with huge drivers and a colossal tender. The engine leaped aside, as if just in time to save us from destruction, with a glimpse of a stooping fireman and a grimy engineer. The long train of sleepers followed. From a forward vestibule a porter in a white coat waved his hand. The rest of the cars seemed still wrapped in slumber. With mixed sensations I saw my own car, Ontario, fly past, and then I rose to my feet and gripped McKnight's shoulder.

On the lowest step of the last car, one foot hanging free, was a man. His black derby hat was pulled well down to keep it from blowing away, and his coat was flying open in the wind. He was swung well out from the car, his free hand gripping a small valise, every muscle tense for a jump.

"Good God, that's my man!" I said hoarsely, as the audience broke into applause. McKnight half rose; in his seat ahead Johnson stifled a yawn and turned to eye me.

I dropped into my chair limply, and tried to control my excitement. "The man on the last platform of the train," I said. "He was just about to leap; I'll swear that was my bag."

"Could you see his face?" McKnight asked in an undertone. "Would you know him again?"

"No. His hat was pulled down and his head was bent. I'm going back to find out where that picture was taken. They say two miles, but it may have been forty."

The audience, busy with its wraps, had not noticed. Mrs Dallas and Allison West had gone. In front of us Johnson had dropped his hat and was stooping for it.

"This way," I motioned to McKnight, and we wheeled into the narrow passage behind us, back of the boxes. At the end there was a door leading into the wings, and as we went boldly through I turned the key.

The final set was being struck, and no one paid any attention to us. Luckily they were similarly indifferent to a banging at the door I had locked, a banging which, I judged, signified Johnson.

"I guess we've broken up his interference," McKnight chuckled.

Stage hands were hurrying in every direction; pieces of the side wall of the last drawing room menaced us; a switchboard behind us was singing like a tea-kettle. Everywhere we stepped we were in somebody's way. At last we were across, confronting a man in his shirt sleeves, who by dots and dashes of profanity seemed to be directing the chaos.

"Well?" he said, wheeling on us. "What can I do for you?"

"I would like to ask," I replied, "if you have any idea just where the last cinematograph picture was taken."

"Broken board—plenickers—lake?"

"No. The Washington Flier."

He glanced at my bandaged arm.

"The announcement says two miles," McKnight put in, "but we should like to know whether it is railroad miles, automobile miles, or policeman miles."

"I am sorry I can't tell you," he replied, more civilly. "We get those pictures by contract. We don't take them ourselves."

"Where are the company's offices?"

"New York." He stepped forward and grasped a super by the shoulder. "What in blazes are you doing with that gold chain in a kitchen sink? Take that piece of pink plush there and throw it over a soap box, if you have not got a kitchen chair."

I had not realized the extent of the shock, but now I dropped into a chair and wiped my forehead. The unexpected gilman of Allison West followed almost immediately by the revelation of the picture, had left me limp and unnerved. McKnight was looking at his watch.

"He says the moving picture people have an office down-town. We can make it if we go on now."

So he called a cab, and we started at a gallop. There was no sign of the detective. "Upon my word," Richey said, "I feel lonely without him."

The people at the down-town office of the cinematograph company were very obliging. The picture had been taken, they said, at ——, just two miles beyond the scene of the wreck. It was not much, but it was something to work on. I decided not to go home, but to send McKnight's Jap for my clothes, and to dress at the incubator. I was determined, if possible, to make my next day's investigations without Johnson. In the meantime, even if it was for the last time, I would see Her that night. I gave Stogie a note for Mrs. Klopton, and with my dinner clothes there came back the gold bag wrapped in tissue paper.

Why Dickens Wrote "Christmas Carol."

I noticed a statement in one of the papers recently that Dickens wrote his "Christmas Carol" with the express object of reviving the popular interest in the Christmas season and its festivities. This is a pleasing fiction which had often been previously met with. The fact is that Dickens wrote the "Christmas Carol" in the autumn of 1843 because he was short of money and in great need of $5,000. The most candid chapter in Forster's "Life" is the one (in the second volume) which relates the tale of Dickens's disappointment and despair when he received the "Carol" accounts, for instead of the $5,000 he "had set his heart and soul upon," the sum due to him was only $1,150. Dickens wrote: "My year's bills, unpaid, are terrific (but all the energy and determination I can possibly exert will be required to clear me before I go abroad." Dickens ultimately cleared $2,630 by the "Christmas Carol" on a sale of 15,000 copies.—London Truth.

Good Joke on Voter.

An amusing story is told of what happened to a pluralist voter in the 1900 election in England. He was a keen politician and believing that the vote he possessed in a distant constituency would be of value to his candidate engaged a special train to take him there. On entering the polling booth he found the engineer of the train at his heels. He then discovered that the engineer happened to be on the voting register of the same town and was taking the opportunity of his accidental presence there to record his vote—which was given for the other side.

WAS SIRE OF TEXAS

Moses Austin, Grandfather of the Lone Star State.

Former Republic Asked to Care for Missouri Home and Tomb of Famous Pioneer Who Made Possible Its Founding.

Potosi, Mo.—Washington county officials have recently appealed to Texas state officials to arrange for that commonwealth to care for the grave and home of Moses Austin in this city. Moses Austin was father of Stephen F. Austin, honored as the father of Texas. As truly as Stephen F. Austin was the father of the former republic and the late state, Moses Austin was its grandfather, for he did the preliminary work, made the treaty and planned the colony that made possible the work of his son as founder of the republic.

It is believed here that the recent removal of the body of Stephen F. Austin from a lonely grave in a Texas village to a state-built tomb in the capital city that was named for him, and the memorial services in several cities will arouse sufficient interest in the Austin family to result in arrangements being made to care for the almost dismantled tomb and the decaying log cabin here.

The cabin stands on one corner of the public square of this city. It is all that is left of the once pretentious Durham Hall, Moses Austin's early-day home. At the time of the Louisiana purchase there was no more elaborate private estate in the whole Mississippi valley than Durham Hall, where the owner entertained such notable men as Aaron Burr, Andrew Jackson and Thomas H. Benton.

Moses Austin, under a grant from the Spanish government, opened the first lead mines and built the first lead smelter in Missouri. He was at the head of the first bank established in St. Louis and was a member of the first Masonic settlement period.

He conceived the idea of settling Texas with Americans, and it was under a treaty negotiated by him with the Mexican government that the first American colony was established in Texas. The consumation of these plans necessitated an overland trip from Potosi to San Antonio, the hardships of which resulted in the death of the projector.

Stephen F. Austin continued the work of his father, led the American colony into the southwest wilderness and helped the Texans to establish a republic.

Moses Austin's body lies in a rickety, weed-covered tomb in the Presbyterian churchyard, not a block distant from the log cabin. A marble slab, not more than 18 inches square, set in a rustic tomb of hand-hewn rock, bears this simple inscription:

MOSES AUSTIN,
DIED 1820.

When the condition of the tomb was called to the attention of Washington county officials, it was their opinion that Texas residents would be pleased to have the tomb better cared for, hence the letter to a state official stating its condition.

Had Cost England Many Millions.

London.—Harmuzd Rassam, the Assyrian scholar and explorer, whose cruel treatment by King Theodore involved England in a $45,000,000 war with Abyssinia, which ended in the suicide of the African ruler, died a few days ago in the English village of Hove, where he had been many years in peaceful retirement. He was born in northern Mesopotamia, opposite the site of the ancient Nineveh, and went to England early in life, becoming connected with the British museum.

In June, 1864, after having held a British political position at Aden, at the Indian ocean end of the Red sea, he took charge of the English mission to King Theodore of Abyssinia, who had imprisoned and maltreated the British consul and several other Europeans. He demanded the release of the prisoners. At first he was treated with consideration, but afterward he and two of his companions were shut up in the fortress of Magdala and were kept there almost two years in chains. They suffered from misery, cold and hunger, and were in constant fear of death. When Great Britain sent to Abyssinia a punitive expedition under Lord Mapier, King Theodore shot himself to death to avoid the humiliation of capture.

She Covered Her Head.

Scene, a country church of Episcopalian denomination in process of being decorated for the Christmas season. The rector, who has a strong leaning toward forms of all kinds, is fastening a festoon of evergreen about the baptismal font, when, enter Miss Dympie, who unceremoniously flings her hat upon the seat of a pew and comes to his assistance. The rector suddenly observes that she is hatless and remarks severely:

"Miss Dympie, it is particularly forbidden that women shall come into the church with uncovered heads."

"Oh, bother, I forgot!" responded the young lady irreverently. "Well," grabbing up the rector's derby and setting it jauntily on her pert little head, "will this do?"

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional Cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Couldn't Be Thankful.

Bishop Charles W. Smith at a harvest dinner in Portland said of the harvest spirit:

"The harvest spirit is one of thankfulness, but there are some crabbed old farmers who couldn't be thankful if they tried.

"I said to such an old fellow as he conducted me over his farm on a golden autumn afternoon and showed me a record harvest:

"'Well, sir, this year, at least, you've got nothing, nothing whatever to complain of.'

"'I don't know about that, bishop,' he answered, with a shake of the head. 'I'm afraid there'll be no spoilt hay for the young calves.'"

UNKIND JOLT FROM ADAM

As If Eve Hadn't Sorrow Enough, Her Partner Had to Add to the Affliction.

Adam had just received his notice of ejectment.

He stared at it a long time in silence, while Eve, crouched in a dusky corner, softly whimpered.

Presently the father of mankind looked around.

As Eve caught his angry eye her whimper changed to a gulping sob.

"Well," he said sternly, "you've certainly put us in a fine mess with your silly curiosity! And yet when I refused to have anything to do with your apple scheme you called me a poor fool. Do you remember that you called me a poor fool?"

"Ye-es," sobbed Eve.

"Well, there's just one question I want to ask you?" said Adam.

"What is it?" gasped the first mother.

"Who's looney now?" he harshly demanded.

Then he turned away abruptly and started to pack up the family gourds and the tent poles.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

NEWSPAPERS TAKING IT UP

Metropolitan Dailies Giving Advice How to Check Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble.

This is a simple home recipe now being made known in all the larger cities through the newspapers. It is intended to check the many cases of Rheumatism and dread kidney trouble which have made so many cripples, invalids and weaklings of some of our brightest and strongest people.

The druggists everywhere, even in the smallest communities, have been notified to supply themselves with the ingredients, and the sufferer will have no trouble to obtain them. The prescription is as follows; Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce, and Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle. The dose is one teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

Recent experiments in hospital cases prove this simple mixture effective in Rheumatism. Because of its positive action upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys, it compels these most vital organs to filter from the blood and system the waste impurities and uric acid which are the cause of rheumatism. It cleanses the kidneys, strengthens them and removes quickly such symptoms as backache, blood disorders, bladder weakness, frequent urination, painful scalding and d'scolored urine. It acts as a gentle, thorough regulator to the entire kidney structure.

Those who suffer and are accustomed to purchase a bottle of medicine should not let a little inconvenience interfere with making this up, or have your druggist do it for you.

GOVERNORS IN FRANKFORT

Third Session of State Executives Debated Matters of Moment.

SESSIONS DEVOTED TO BUSINESS

Victors in Recent Elections Settling Topics That Puzzle Commonwealths.

Frankfort.—The third conference of governors began when Gov. Willson welcomed the chief executives to the Blue Grass state and Mayor Polsgrove welcomed them to its capital. Gov. Aram G. Pothier, of Rhode Island, responded, and Gov.-elect Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, spoke on the possibilities of this conference.

Never before has Kentucky had such a gathering within her confines.

The governors of thirty of our states were present and also the governors-elect of several states. This is the second conference held outside of Washington. It meets in Kentucky in honor of Gov. Augustus E. Wilson, chairman of the executive committee and hence the virtual head of the body.

Gov.-elect Emmet O'Neal and Mrs. O'Neal, from Alabama, were the first of the visitors to enter the confines of the state.

The following is the list of governors present and others are expected before the sessions close:

Alabama—Emmet O'Neal and wife.
Arizona—Richard E. Sloan and wife.
Colorado—John F. Shafroth and wife.
Connecticut—Frank B. Weeks and wife.
Georgia—Joseph M. Brown and wife.
Idaho—James H. Hawley, governor-elect.
Indiana—Thomas R. Marshall and wife.
Kansas—Walter R. Stubbs.
Kentucky—Augustus E. Willson.
Massachusetts—Eben S. Draper and wife and daughter.
Mississippi—E. F. Noel and wife.
Missouri—Herbert S. Hadley.
Montana—Edwin L. Norris and wife.
New Jersey—John Franklin Fort.
New Jersey—Woodrow Wilson, governor-elect.
North Carolina—W. W. Kitchin.
Ohio—Judson Harmon and wife.
Oklahoma—Lee Cruce, governor-elect.
Rhode Island—Adam J. Pothier and wife.
South Carolina—Martin F. Ansel and wife.
South Dakota—R. S. Vessey and wife.
Utah—William Spry.
Virginia—Wm. H. Mann and wife.
Wisconsin—Francis E. McGovern, governor-elect.

All the former governors of Kentucky who are now living and their wives were invited to the reception given Tuesday evening by Governor and Mrs. Willson in honor of the governors of other states.

Wednesday morning the governors went to Louisville, where the remaining sessions of the conference were held.

It is understood that among the chief subjects to be discussed is conservation from the standpoint of the states, legislation against pollution of streams, which may be classed as conservation of human life, and the governors' powers and responsibilities. Under the last named head the power of removal of county and other officials will be considered, likewise the short ballot and appointment of the minor state officials or governor's cabinet.

On the subject of conservation it is said that Gov. Norris, of Montana, will be asked to speak for the northwestern governors who got such short shrift at the St. Paul conservation convention and that some one else will represent the other view of the question. The importance of conservation by the states may be realized when it is stated that four-fifths of our natural resources are already under private ownership. Over this the states alone can exercise control.

Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, will speak on "The Possibilities of the House of Governors;" Gov. John Burke, of North Dakota, and Herbert S. Hadley, of Missouri, will discuss "The Governor's Powers and Responsibilities" and the "Short Ballot," followed by Governor-elect Dix of New York. Gov. Fort, of New Jersey, will talk on "Direct Primaries." Gov. Richard Sloan, of Arizona, on the work for the following year, and all will take part in discussions on popular elections of senators, the corrupt practices act, the income tax amendment and conservation of human life.

It is designed to hold future meetings at other state capitals, taking them in rotation, somewhat as the old fashioned country schoolteacher boarded around or the circuit courts traveled from one county seat to another. Thus the house of governors will be a progressive body, at least in the sense that a certain kind of euchre is called progressive.

William George Jordan is referred to as the man who "invented the House of Governors." Mr. Jordan is also secretary of the organization.

PROFITABLE TO RAISE CALVES DURING WINTER

They Do Not Cost as Much as Those Born in the Spring Owing to the Absence of Heat and Flies—How They Are Managed.

Calves dropped in the late fall and the early part of winter can be raised at less cost than calves dropped in spring. Spring calves do not receive much benefit from grass the first season, because for some six weeks after birth the ruminating stomach is undeveloped; then, again, the summer heat and the plague of flies are a serious drawback to healthy growth. In the fall and during the winter months, outdoor work not being so pressing, more time for feeding and caring for the calves may be given. The calves being fed mostly on milk and swill, mill feed and oatmeal food, and kept in a warm, well-lighted box stall and under the management of a careful hand, will make a strong growth throughout the winter, and by April they will be large enough to turn out to pasture and do well on the dry rations of the following winter. The fall calf, properly fed and cared for, can be served when 16 to 18 months of age, coming fresh the latter part of the second winter.

The calf should be left with the cow for several days after birth, as the milk of the cow, which is of a turbid, yellowish color, unfit for human food, but having medicinal qualities, wisely designed by nature to free the bowels and intestines of the new-born animal from the mucous excrementatious matter always existing in the stomach of the calf after birth. This milk should never be given to older calves, as it would produce scours. For the first few days give fresh, newly drawn milk from the mother. Afterward give sweet skimmilk, to which may be added a little boiled oilcake and second quality wheat flour. Feed lukewarm twice a day, about two quarts at each meal. Give the calf the two fingers of the right hand to suck up the milk at first. The calf will soon learn to drink the milk without the hand. Feed at regular hours. After the milk has been drunk put a little hay in the calf's mouth. A little bright, sweet clover hay should be tied in the pen every day. This will teach the calf to eat. Have a clean feed bucket. Disease and no end of germs lurk in the seams of a dirty bucket. A wooden bucket should not be used unless scoured out daily. The buckets should be washed, scalded and set in the sun every day. The female calves from the best cows should be raised. It is well to raise a choice male animal, to take the place of the head bull when he becomes too old or vicious. Dairymen having the pasture and the forage should raise their cows, instead of buying them. Better milkers may be had and at much less cost. The labor cost of raising a calf should not be counted, as the farmer should attend to this part of the business. He has abundant time not only to raise the calves, but also to feed and help milk. Unless the owner gives careful attention to details he had better give up the milk business. The calf pen should be kept clean, given dry bedding and fully exposed to the sunshine and well aired.

CARING FOR FARM HORSES

By Observing a Few Precautions Farmer May Avoid Loss of Time, Expense and Injury to Animals.

(By H. E. KINGMAN.)

A horse cannot do satisfactory work with shoulders that pain him every time he takes a step. The horse may be looked upon as a machine that is expected to do so much work, and if some of the mechanism is out of order then the amount of work is lessened. But, also, the animal must be looked upon as a creature with feeling and ambition, taking pride in its work, that is a willing, obedient and therefore valuable servant, and should be properly cared for.

The first thing of importance to consider in the draught horse is the collar. Most of the injured shoulders are the result of poorly fitting collars, and the fault usually lies in a collar being too large. It is a good idea to have a harness maker fit the collars to your horses. He may be able to remove padding and in other ways make the collar over so that it will fit nicely. Heavy collar pads are to be avoided if possible. They are hot and cause the shoulders to sweat; this keeps the pad and shoulder wet, and the skin becomes soft and blisters easily.

Dirty collars are probably as responsible for sores houlders as ill fitting ones, in the spring especially, when the horse's hair is long. He is soft from lack of work, and sweats profusely. This forms a gummy dirt that adheres to the collar and makes, when dry, a hard, rough surface. The ordinary farm hand feels that his duty is done if he scrapes the dirt from the collar with the back of his jackknife. This method, however, is not an especially good one for the leather of the collar, and a smooth surface is not left. A damp sponge used in the evening as soon as the collar is taken off will, in one or two minutes, remove the dirt. This may be followed by an oiled rag; if this is done the collar in the morning should be soft and smooth.

Careless driving, jerking a horse out of the furrow and into it again, allowing him to work with his head around on one side, all tend to produce sore shoulders.

Of course, the first precaution to take is not to ask a colt to do a full day's work until he learns something about his job and ceases to fret. The shoulder will then gradually become toughened. It is a good idea to sponge the shoulders with cold water—just plain cold water. Alum water has been used to good advantage; also weak solutions of tannic acid. Alcohol tends to toughen the skin.

The injuries to the top of the neck very frequently terminate in fistulas, withers, etc. A blister near the point of the shoulder is likely to become a callous and form what is known as a "cold abscess." Ill-fitting collars and poor drivers are equally responsible for a condition known as "sweeny."

TRUCK FARMING WITH DAIRY

Difficult to Conceive of More Profitable Type of Agriculture Than Judicious Blending of Two.

(By W. M. KELLY.)

The truck farmer who is farming without manure maintains the supply of nitrogen in his soil by the use of legumes and buys a fertilizer rich in phosphoric acid and potash. In this way he secures a better balanced fertilizer than the dairyman who uses manure rich in nitrogen and deficient in the mineral elements on clover sod that is already rich in nitrogen.

Now as nitrogen is the most expensive element of fertility we can readily see how much more profitable it would be for the dairy farmer to lengthen his rotation one year and grow some highly organized market crop that would sell for more than enough to pay for the purchased grain foods required to feed the dairy cows.

In this way he would be making better use of the surplus of nitrogen and the purchase of a small amount of mineral fertilizers would enable him to greatly increase the yield of every crop grown in the rotation that is followed in growing food for his cattle.

I believe that we should try and incorporate some of the methods of soil handling practised by the trucker and market crop grower into the management of our dairy business if we succeed in deriving from it the largest and most certain profits.

It is difficult to conceive of a more profitable type of farming than a judicious blending of dairy farming and market crop growing, but in order to successfully combine these two types of agriculture we must abandon old and unprofitable methods of dairying and get right down to a study of the principles of soil fertility

SIMPLY A WASTE OF MONEY

Old Sexton Had His Time Mapped Out, and There Was No Need of a Clock.

There had been some talk of placing a clock in the tower of the village church. But John, the old sexton, who lived in the little cottage opposite the church, declared himself "dead again it," and expressed the opinion that it would mean "an awful waste o' brass" were the scheme carried out.

"We want no clocks," he said the other day. "We've done without clocks up to now, an' we shall manage. Why, lyin' I' my bed of a mornin' I can see the time by the sundial over the porch."

"Yes," replied one who approved of the scheme, "that's all right so far as it goes. But the sun doesn't shine every morning. What do you do then?"

"Why," answered John, surprisedly, "I knows then as it ain't fit weather to be out o' bed, an' I just stops where I is."—Tit-Bits.

No Union.

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, at a luncheon at the Colony club in New York, urged on women the necessity for union.

"If we are to get the vote," she said, "we must stand together. Too many women face this question as they face all others—like the elderly belles at the charity ball.

"'What a flatterer Wooter Von Twiller is!' said the first belle.

"'Why, did he tell you you looked nice?' said the second.

"'No,' was the reply. 'He told me you did!'"

It's awful hard for a little woman to impress people with her dignity.

ALABAMA WOMAN SETS A RAPID PACE

Is the Best Farmer in the Fertile Tennessee Valley, of Northern Alabama.

Mrs. Lelia Seton Wilder, of Wilder Place, near New Decatur, has earned for herself in Alabama the reputation of being the best farmer in the fertile Tennessee Valley, North Alabama.

Mrs. Wilder has a farm consisting of 1,600 acres in one of the most fertile sections of the valley, and the plantation is worked almost exclusively by negroes, who are tenants on the place. Their labor, it is said, has been found most satisfactory in every respect, every one of the twenty negro tenants looking after his work with enthusiasm and zeal. Out of appreciation for their services and willingness to aid in farm demonstration work of every kind, the United States Department has conferred upon each of the negroes a badge which reads: "Demonstration, United States Department of Agriculture, Wilder Place."

The crops annually put out by Mrs. Wilder are always of a bumper variety. —Berryman G. Betty in Farmers Home Journal.

HAIR HEALTH.

If You Have Scalp or Hair Trouble, Take Advantage of This Offer.

We could not afford to so strongly endorse Rexall "93" Hair Tonic and continue to sell it as we do, if it did not do all we claim it will. Should our enthusiasm carry us away, and Rexall "93" Hair Tonic not give entire satisfaction to the users, they would lose faith in us and our statements, and in consequence our business prestige would suffer.

We assure you that if your hair is be ginning to unnaturally fall out or you have any scalp trouble, Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will promptly eradicate dandruff, stimulate hair growth and prevent premature baldness.

Our faith in Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is so strong that we ask you to try it on our positive guarantee that your money will be cheerfully refunded if it does not do as we claim. Two sizes, 50c. and $1.00. Sold only at our store—The Rexall store. The Haydon & Willett Drug Co.

Opera House For Bloomfield.

Mr. James. A Allen, of Bloomfield is building a spacious opera hall over the large tobacco warehouse he is erecting in Bloomfield. The stage is roomy and the seating capacity of the hall will be near the thousand mark. The hall should furnish great entertainment for the people of the Bloomfield community, as large shows can be accommodated.—Lebanon Falcon.

If you are suffering from biliousness, constipation, indigestion, chronic headache, invest one cent in a postal card, send to Chamberlain Medicine Co., Des Moines, Ia., with your name and address plainly on the back, and they will forward you a free sample of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Sold by Haydon & Robertson.

Card of Thanks.

The Sisters of St. Catherine, of Sienna Academy, tender grateful acknowledgements to the Alumnae ladies—it may not be invidious to say—to the officers of the Society, especially, for the "Book Shower" that came as a Thanksgiving offering. Such thoughtfulness is appreciated, especially for the librarian, for whom it was an unexpected addition, both in the choice and the number of volumes.

May God bless the cheerful givers.

DOMINICAN SISTERS.

Kept the King at Home,

"For the past year we have kept the King of all laxatives—Dr. King's New Life Pills—in our home and they have proved a blessing to all our family," writes Paul Matzka, of Buffalo, N. Y. Easy, but sure remedy for all Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles. Only 25c. at Haydon & Robertson's.

Teddy's Shortened Name.

Al Re, of Everett, Mass., claims to have the shortest name of any one in the country. He challenges anybody to come foward with a name as short as his. Miss Ida Ee, of Brockton, was credited with having the shortest name in America. Mr. Re's challenge will doubtless be accepted by Col. Theodore Roosevelt, whose name has recently been changed and shortened to Mud.—Hopkinsville Kentuckian.

A Woman's Great Idea.

is how to make herself attractive. But without health it is hard for her to be lovely in face, form or temper. A weak sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation and Kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. But Electric Bitters always prove a godsend to women who want health, beauty and friends. They regulate Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, purify the blood; give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth, velvety skin love ly complexion, good health. Try them 50c. at Haydon & Robertson.

Commissioner's SALE!

Washington Circuit Court, Ky.

Rosa Darland, etc., plaintiff, vs. Revie Adkinson, etc., defendant—Equity.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sal of the Washington Circuit Court, rendered at the October term, in the above styled cause, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Court House door in Springfield, Ky., on at 2 o'clock, p. m., or thereabout—being County Court day—to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, upon a credit of 6 and 12 months, the following described property, to wit:

A certain tract of land situated in Washington county, Ky., on the Mackville and Cardwell turnpike, about 1½ miles from Battle, Ky., and near the Bailey's chapel school house. This tract of land contains 70 acres, more or less, is known as the old Johnnie Lay place, and is now occupied by James Darland.

For the purchase price the purchaser or purchasers, with approved security or sureties, must execute bond bearing legal interest from date of sale until paid, and having the force and effect of a judgment. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

C. F. BOSLEY, M. C. W. C. C.

THE DOCTOR'S QUESTION.

Much Sickness Due to Bowel Disorders.

A doctor's first question when consulted by a patient is, "Are your bowels regular?" He knows that 98 per cent of illness is attended with inactive bowels and torpid liver, and that this condition must be removed gently and thoroughly before health can be retored.

Rexall Orderlies are a positive, pleasant and sure remedy for constipation and bowel disorders in general. We are so certain of their great curative powers that we promise to return the purchaser's money in every case when they fail to produce entire satisfaction.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy; they act quietly and have a soothing strengthening healing influence on the entire intestinal tract. They do not purge, gripe, cause nausea, flatulence, excessive looseness, diarrhoea or other annoying effect. They are especially good for children, weak persons or old folks. Two sizes, 25c, and 10c. Sold only at our store—The Rexall store. The Haydon & Willett Drug Co.

Where Marriage is a Failure.

Some people with more money and time on their hands than good sense and good taste show remarkable ingenuity in doing foolish things that violate the proprieties. One of the worst cases was that of the woman who had three pet dogs for her bridesmaids at her wedding. If her husband had any feelings they must have been of humiliation. The act itself was practically a mockery of marriage and one wonders that any clergyman, if it was a clergyman that officiated, could have been guilty of sanctioning such a parody by his presence.—Ex.

Constipation Cure Free

With the first signs of constipation you resort to the home methods of relief, such as hot or cold water on arising, lots of starch in with your breakfast, etc., but what do you do when these fail?

The majority then start on salts and purgative waters, then change to cathartic pills, etc. If you have gone through these various stages you know they were all useless, so far as permanent results go. Now you should try just once again, but try something practical and sensible, a remedy made and intended for the purpose you are trying to accomplish. Such a remedy, as thousands can testify, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is guaranteed to be permanent in its results. Its ingredients are such that by a brief use of it the stomach and bowel muscles are trained to again do their work normally, so that in the end you can do away with medicines of all kinds. That it will do this Mr. G. Y. Dodson of Sanville, Va., will gladly attest, and so will Mrs. S. A. Hampton of Portage, O.

To those who are still skeptical there is a way to prove these assertions without a penny of expense: Simply send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell and obtain a free sample bottle. After using it, if you are then convinced it is the remedy you need, buy a fifty cent or one dollar bottle of your druggist and continue to use it for a brief time until cured. The directions are simple and the dose is small. It is pleasant to the taste, does not gripe and is promptly effective, and these statements are guaranteed or money will be refunded.

This remedy is over a quarter of a century old and is personally taken by more druggists than any other similar remedy on the American market. Because of its effectiveness, purity and pleasant taste it is the ideal laxative remedy for children, women and old folks generally.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 8,500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

Public Sale!

I WILL, ON

Tuesday, Dec. 20, 1910,

sell to the highest bidder at my residence at Springfield, Ky., all of my lands, consisting of

The Home Place

Containing 41 acres and 7 poles just outside the town limits in 300 yards of the Graded and High School. This is one of the best and most convenient homes around town, every building that is needed and all good. Also a good young orchard of 150 trees.

TRACT NO. 2.

Contains 107 acres 1 rood and 10 poles on the Knobleck dirt road, which will be piked in the near future, 1 mile from pike and 1½ miles from same school. This is mostly fine tobacco land in fine state of cultivation, has sown on it now 35 acres small grain. Also a good small dwelling; newly repaired, good barn room for 10 acres tobacco.

TRACT NO. 3.

207 acres 7½ miles from Springfield in the Ballard Store neighborhood, on country road 1 mile from pike one way and 1½ miles the other, has fairly good improvements, finely watered, plenty of tobacco and corn land, full of grass. The cheapest farm in the county considering what it can be bought for. A chance of a life time for a man of small means. Also 2 lots in the cemetery, the best located to be had now.

The sale will be held at 1 o'clock, p. m., in order not to conflict with the tobacco sales and to give interested parties a chance to attend both sales.

I WILL ON

Wednesday, Dec. 28, '10

At 10 o'clock, a. m., offer for sale the following live stock:

Two good farm and family horses, 7 and 11 years old, work anywhere, not afraid of an automobile, 1 3 year-old combined horse, 1 yearling past, a good one. 4 good milk cows, 3 Jersey heifers, 2 bucks, some hogs, agricultural implements of all kinds, cutting box, corn sheller big lot of tools, wagons, surrey, buggies, gear, harness, 100 rods of wire fence, 5 stands of bees, about 500 bushels corn. 25 or 30 bushels wheat, hay, shock fodder, tops, etc. Big lot of tobacco sticks, 1 Underwood Typewriter, good as new, organ, a good one, household and kitchen furniture and many other things too numerous to mention.

Liberal terms and made known on day of sale. Lunch served at this sale at 12 o'clock.

Jas. I. Royalty.
